

Iowa Graduate Global Health Symposium: Connecting the University of Iowa

All University of Iowa graduate/professional students, faculty and staff are invited to submit photographs taken during a global health experience that illustrates global health challenges, solutions and/or cross-cultural experiences. All photographs must be taken by the person submitting them.

The submission deadline for the photo contest is on November 1st, 2012 by 5 p.m.

Submission Format:

- Photographs must illustrate global health challenges, solutions and/or cross-cultural experiences.
- Students can submit up to three photographs.
- Photographs must be in a JPG file. Each JPG file should be between 3 - 10 MB in size to ensure high enough resolution for printing.
- Name your photographs as follows: lastname_firstname_picturenumber.jpeg. (e.g., smith_sarah_1.jpeg).
- Each entry must be accompanied with the following in a MS Word file:
 - A short photo-essay (no more than 100 words) describing the photograph's connection to a global health challenge, solution or cross-cultural experience
 - The original title of the work (be creative!)
 - The name and UI college/department of the photographer
 - When the photograph was taken (month, if known, and year)
 - Where the photograph was taken (city or region, and country)
 - Please number picture titles and descriptions so that they correspond with the picture numbers in the JPG files
- Students will maintain ownership of their photographs; however, the University of Iowa reserves the right to use submitted photographs in promotional materials.

Selection Criteria:

Photographs that show technical and artistic merit as well as their ability to convey a global health message will be put on display at the Symposium. These photos will be decided upon by the Symposium's Steering Committee. Symposium participants will be encouraged to vote for their favorite entry to determine the top three winners.

Please submit your photo entries and questions to iowa.ghsymposium@gmail.com.
